SAN-JAK

Tuberculosis

May occur in any tissue of the body. The chief seats of the disease are the Lungs, Larynx, Liver, Kidneys, Intestines and Brain. To prevent a clogging of the blood and body fluids in the intestines (a disease called Stasis, clogged and wrinkled intestines) and allow the germ of Tuberculosis and Catarrh to pass off, there is no preparation yet known so effective as San-Jak.

Prevents

Auto intoxication, it serves to equalize the blood and body fluids, prevents the escaped products from one or more diseased organs of the body reaching the brain and deadening the nerve centers, causing the man to weaken and totter as in advanced years.

The use of San-Jak for pain in the back and abdomen greatly lessens the danger of appendicitis.

Fortified Tires

Span the Way from Trouble

Goodyear tires have bridged the way for countless men to less trouble and tax. And those men, by their endorsement, brought our last year's output up to 1,479,863 tires.

Why do you suppose that Goodyear holds top place—where you see other tires? They have held that place for years, outlasting any other.

The only reason, as you must know, is that Goodyear's average best. And that's how they are bound to win you.

The Super-Tire

They are not trouble-proof. Mishaps come to them, misuses affect them, much like other tires. But Goodyear's are Fortified.

Tires. They protect you in five ways—employed by no other maker. They combat five major troubles in unique ways, exclusive to Fortified Tires. These five extra features cost no more. One alone—our "On-Air" process—costs $450,000 yearly. But they save Goodyear users millions of dollars yearly. They avoid countless troubles for them.

Lower Prices

On February 1st we made another big reduction. That makes three in two years, totaling 45 per cent. We are giving you, through mammoth production, the best tire value ever known.

NURSING HARD TIMES.

A farmer of some standing entered the establishment of a merchant to whom he owed $40. Pressed for payment of the debt, he reached down into his pocket, brought forth a healthy roll of bank-notes with quite a number of gold notes as the centre, peeled off a $10 gold note and paid it to the merchant on account. That was all. The debtor gave no indication that he had immediate use for the rest of the roll of currency. He simply declined to meet his full indebtedness. If several million debtors, with ready money in their pockets, refused to meet their obligations, refuse to pay for goods that have come into their possession, not with any idea of repudiating their debt, but simply in response to some undefined and unorganized impression that more important use for the money may develop, things will not open up in a business way, and particularly in a financial way, for some time to come. The most useless money in the world is money stored in the pocket or hoarded in some other way. It ceases for a time to be currency. Currency moves. In its moving, it keeps other things moving. It is the same as to other influences to progress and activity. If certain things must be done sooner or later, the sooner they are done, if facilities are at hand, the better it will be later.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wyse of Stryker visited his parents Sunday.

Boston Kimerer and Scott Smith of Toledo were guests of the formers parents over Sunday.

Freem Wyse is riding a new riding plover these cold days.

Monday evening of March the eighth, Rev. H. W. Mowen of Palmyra, Michigan, stopped at C. Kimerer's for a short visit; finally Kimerer invited him to stay over night with him, which was accepted; the evening was passed in his telling of his mission work in South America, Austria and Greenland, he said he had held revival meetings in many towns in Kentucky. When he left on Tuesday morning he said he was going south of Bryan to hold a meeting in the Duck Creek, and on the following Monday, March 15, the Sheriff and his deputy of Lenawee County, Michigan, autoed down here and were on track of him, he had stolen the horse from his brother-in-law, Mr. Fox, he was a bigamist having three living wives. The horse he was driving was a dark sorrel with a white stripe in its face, valued about 1150 and a little sore in front.

KING SCHOOL.

The King School, District No. 8, Clinton township, seemed to be quite a center of attraction last week. On Wednesday evening "The Gleasons" gave an entertainment and lecture. This meeting was greatly appreciated by all who attended and many thanks to the members of the "Gleason Arbor" for their entertainment.

On Thursday evening, Mr. Jesse Frey began a series of singing lessons at this meeting. There were thirty-two singers and we give a hearty welcome to all to attend.

The climax of the week's affair was on Saturday evening when Mr. Altman showed the agriculture class and several farmers of the district how to determine the per cent. of butter fat in milk. This was done with a new Babcock milk tester which is part of the agricultural apparatus of this school. The tests which were made were all very good with that of 4.4 as highest. Now farmers if you have any milk which you wish to have tested, bring a sample along with you to the King School. You will find your visit well repaid.

GETTING HIS REVENGE

By ALICE KILLIAN.

"Every time," the riding master was muttering, savagely, "every single time I'm away from this academy for a few days things go wrong."

The immediate cause of his anger was a heap of grayish garments on the table in his office. He inspected each article carefully, and then tossed it wrathfully in some corner of the room until the room took on the appearance of a windstruck clothing shop. Finally he could contain himself no longer.

"Hey, Jim!" he shouted. "Jim!" Grumbling one of the objects of his rage in a gingerly fashion between thumb and finger, he held it up scornfully to the gaze of his assistant when the latter appeared in response to the call. With exaggerated patience he asked: "Jim, what in the name of wonder do you call this thing?"

Jim glanced at it. He also noted the purple face of his employer and the devastation about him, but he answered in a matter of fact way: "Why, Mr. Leonard, that's one of the new riding outfits that Cutton and I quick sent over while you were gone."

"Truly," responded Leonard, with elaborate sarcasm. "I suppose I'll have to believe you, but I thought it was a couple of feed bags sewed together. Anyway, take them all back to that tailor shop and tell those fellows to put more material into them. Ruffles or plaits—any improvement at all that may suit my fastidious taste. If they don't they can keep the lot."

"They won't do anything to the things now," decreed Jim. "I paid for them with the check you left."

"Paid for them? You're mighty lavish with other people's money, aren't you?"

"Well," answered Jim, sulkily, "the man said they were according to contract."

"Oh! he did! And you believed him like a good little boy? Well, he's sly. But take them back and tell those tailors to fix them right."

Jim followed instructions, but returned in due time with the message that the tailors said the garments had been made according to contract and that the alterations would have to be paid for.

Then for a week Jim carefully avoided the riding master. A cloud of dissatisfaction rested continually on the latter's face. When looking out on the new riding skirts he was heard by Jim to mutter: "Oh, I'll get even yet—I've got to get even!" Jim was uneasy.

At last one day Leonard came up behind Jim, clapping him jovially on the shoulder, exclaimed: "Well, I did get even after all!" Then at sight of Jim's face he laughed and said: "Oh, not with you. That is, not yet."

"What do I know about riding clothes?" growled Jim in extenuation. "I'm no tailor!"

"You'll learn." Leonard rested one foot comfortably on the mounting block and tapped his boot with his riding crop. "There's more to a school like than just horses. Now I'll tell you how I got even with Cutton & Quick."

"Last night Mrs. Leonard and I went to that tailor shop, ostensibly to order a riding habit. Cutton was out but his partner officiated in full glory. He just spread himself showing patterns and materials."

"But, madam," he said, "we make riding habits for the best society people. Miss Bash has just ordered her third suit from us and Mrs. Blank is having us make habits for herself and her daughter. Just recently, here he puffed himself up proudly, "we filled a large order for the Leonard Riding academy."

"So that Mrs. Leonard gave a little shriek. "Those awful things!" he cried. "Why, the academy doesn't rent them to its patrons, nor does it even let us beginners go out of doors in them when we're having instruction. She jumped up and said to me, 'Come, let's go somewhere else. Any tailor that would make such things as those dreadful misfits at Leonard's—she shuddered—'isn't good enough.'"

"At the door I turned and said, sympathetically: 'Think, Mr. Quick, you better not tell any one else that you made those things. Evidently, they're no advertisement.'"

"His face at that moment wore an expression that more than pays for those skirts. So I got even. Mrs. Leonard helps!"
